EXPERTISE

- Construction contracts
- Law of architects and engineers
- Real estate law

Anne advises principals and contractors on all questions of private construction and real estate law, from contract drafting to contract management as well as in litigious disputes. She supports property developers from the initial idea right through to the implementation of the construction project and the establishment of homeowners' associations. She advises public clients and bidders on the preparation and implementation of national and European procurement procedures as well as during the realisation of the relevant projects.

A major focus of Anne's practice is sustainable planning and construction (Kapellmann green contracts). Whether they need assistance with the practical implementation of ESG criteria or the achievement of certification for specific projects – Anne Baureis supports principals and contractors through all phases: from planning, construction and use to deconstruction. She is also a member of the German Association of Project Managers and plays an active role in their specialist group on climate protection in the construction industry.

Anne regularly passes on her practical experience in lectures and seminars as well as through her teaching assignments in construction and real estate law.
